IV. Discussion Items

Proposal No. 1 : (Proposed by the Board of Directors)

Proposal : Proposal for a cash offering by private placement.

Explanation :

1. In order to meet the funding needs for the Company's future development, reinvestment, or replenishment of working capital, and to strengthen the Company's competitiveness, the Company proposes to conduct a cash capital increase by private placement of up to 40,000,000 common shares. It is further proposed that the shareholders' meeting authorize the Board of Directors to conduct the fundraising method and principles described below, taking into account market conditions and the Company's actual needs.
2. In accordance with Article 43-6 of the Securities and Exchange Act and the Directions for Public Companies Conducting Private Placements of Securities, the following explanations are provided:
 - A. Basis and reasonableness for determining the private placement price
 - (1). Basis for determining the issue price: The price per share for the common shares to be issued through the cash capital increase by private placement shall not be lower than 80% of the reference price and shall be determined on the pricing date. The reference price shall be the higher of the following two bases:
 - (a) The simple arithmetic average of the closing prices of the common shares for one, three or five business days before the pricing date, after adjustment for ex-rights and ex-dividend for stock dividends and cash dividends, and after adding back the price after capital reduction and reverse ex-rights adjustment.
 - (b) The simple arithmetic average of the closing prices of the common shares for the 30 business days before the pricing date, after adjustment for ex-rights and ex-dividend for stock dividends and cash dividends, and after adding back the price after capital reduction and reverse ex-rights adjustment.
 - (2). Reasonableness of the issue price: It is proposed that the Board of Directors be authorized to determine the actual issue price in accordance with laws and regulations and within the percentage range resolved by the shareholders' meeting, and taking into consideration future negotiations with specific persons, market conditions and the Company's future prospects. The basis for determining the private placement price complies with the laws and regulations of the competent authority. In addition, as the timing, counterparties and quantity of transfer of privately placed common shares are strictly restricted, and such shares may not be listed for trading on the Taipei Exchange within three years and have relatively poor liquidity, the pricing percentage for this private placement should be reasonable.

B. Method for selecting specific persons

- (1). The subscribers of the common shares to be offered in this private placement shall be limited to specific persons who meet the requirements of Article 43-6 of the Securities and Exchange Act and the Order of the Financial Supervisory Commission dated September 12, 2023 (Ref. No. Financial-Supervisory-Securities-Corporate--1120383220)
- (2). If a subscriber is a strategic investor: The Company will select individuals or juristic persons who have a considerable understanding of the Company's operations and are beneficial to the Company's future operations, and who may, through their experience, technology, brand or channels, assist the Company in improving technology, enhancing quality, reducing costs and increasing benefits. To strengthen the Company's financial structure and debt repayment capability, the introduction of funds from subscribers may improve the Company's overall financial position. The participation of such subscribers may also reduce significant funding costs, improve the Company's financial structure and lower operational risks. It is proposed that the Board of Directors be authorized to review the qualifications of strategic investors.
- (3). If a subscriber is an insider or related party of the Company: The Company currently has no plan for any subscriber to be an insider or related party.
- (4). The Company has not yet identified any subscriber. It is proposed that the Board of Directors be authorized to determine the actual subscribers.

C. Necessary reasons for conducting the private placement

- (1). Reasons for not conducting a public offering: Considering the timeliness and convenience of fundraising and issuance costs, the Company proposes to conduct the cash capital increase by way of private placement.
 - (2). Use of proceeds and expected benefits of this private placement of common shares: The total number of privately placed shares shall not exceed 40,000,000 shares, with a par value of NT$10 per share. It is proposed that the Board of Directors be authorized to conduct the placement in no more than four tranches within one year from the date of the resolution of the shareholders' meeting. The proceeds from each tranche of the private placement will be used to replenish working capital, make reinvestments, or meet other funding needs for future development, thereby effectively reducing funding costs, strengthening the Company's competitiveness and enhancing operational efficiency
3. The rights and obligations of the common shares issued in this private placement shall be the same as those of the issued shares. Within three years from the delivery date, such shares may not be transferred except to transferees prescribed under Article 43-8 of the Securities and Exchange Act. After three full years from the delivery date, it is proposed that the shareholders' meeting authorize the Board of Directors to apply to the competent authority for listing of the privately placed common shares for trading on the Taipei Exchange in accordance with relevant laws and regulations.

4. Except for the private placement pricing percentage, the principal terms of this private placement plan, including the issue price, number of shares, issue terms and conditions, project items, schedule for use of proceeds, expected benefits and any other matters not addressed herein, may be revised in the future due to requirements of the competent authority or changes in objective circumstances. It is proposed that the shareholders' meeting authorize the Board of Directors to handle all such matters in accordance with applicable regulations.

Resolution :

Proposal No. 2 : (Proposed by the Board of Directors)

Proposal : Amendment to the Company's Articles of Association.

Explanation :

To comply with amendments to applicable laws and regulations and the Company's actual operational needs, the Company proposes to amend certain articles of its Articles of Association. Please refer to Attachment 6 on pages 28 to 29 for the comparison table of amendments.

Resolution :

Proposal No. 3 : (Proposed by the Board of Directors)

Proposal : Amendment to the Company's Procedures for Acquisition or Disposal of Assets.

Explanation :

To comply with the Order of the Financial Supervisory Commission dated July 24, 2025 Ref. No. Financial-Supervisory-Securities-Corporate-1140383333, the Company proposes to amend its Procedures for Acquisition or Disposal of Assets. Please refer to Attachment 7 on pages 30 to 33 for the comparison table of amendments.

Resolution :

V.Election Items

1.Business Report

Advanced Lithium Electrochemistry (Cayman) Co., Ltd. Business Report of 2025

1. Operating Guidelines, Implementation Status and Results of Business Plan

Along with government policies in Europe and the United States promoting global battery supply chain security (de-Sinicization) and localized production, European and U.S. governments have introduced high tariffs and incentives for plant construction. Lithium iron phosphate batteries are expected to become the main development focus for global energy storage batteries, and many automakers have also confirmed the use of lithium iron phosphate batteries for electric vehicles and electric trucks. The Company's customers will not be limited to batteries for energy storage, but will also extend into the supply chain for electric mobility, including electric vehicles and electric trucks, with end customers and sales markets spanning the globe.

In 2025, due to decreases in both average selling price and sales volume compared with the same period of the prior year, the Company recorded a gross operating loss of NT$28 million for the period. Due to a significant increase in non-operating income, the Company recorded net income after tax of NT$12 million for the period.

The Company is currently one of the few companies outside China possessing a complete set of patents covering the composition, structure and manufacturing process of lithium iron phosphate cathode materials. As lithium iron phosphate battery technology has evolved, especially with breakthroughs in energy density improvement, tap-density optimization and mitigation of low-temperature performance degradation, lithium iron phosphate batteries can meet the driving range and efficiency requirements of mainstream electric vehicles. Recognition of lithium iron phosphate batteries in European and U.S. markets has also been strongly driven by geopolitics. As a non-China supply chain supplier, the Company has become a scarce resource under the policy backdrop of the U.S. Inflation Reduction Act and the European Critical Raw Materials Act. Through localized licensing and supply chain deployment, the Company will directly assist European and U.S. customers in establishing compliant lithium iron phosphate battery supply chains, enabling lithium iron phosphate batteries to become a strategic solution in the global energy transition that combines performance, cost and policy compliance.

All employees will continue to work diligently with the utmost caution, with the aim of creating a more favorable operating environment, enhancing operating performance and creating corporate value, in return for the long-term support of all shareholders and investors.

2. Budget Implementation Status

The Company did not prepare financial forecasts for 2025; therefore, no disclosure of budget implementation status is required.

1. The implementation of sound business operation 2025 is as follows:

1.1 Comparison of 2025 profit and loss with the same period of the prior year

Units: NTD thousand

Items in the consolidated income statement	2025	2024	Plus (Minus)	Plus (Minus)%
Cathode Material Revenue	399,884	574,355	(174,471)	(30)

Gross profit(loss)	(28,349)	63,633	(91,982)	(145)
Operating Expense	(403,087)	(297,554)	(105,533)	35
Operating loss	(431,436)	(233,921)	(197,515)	84
Non-operating income (expenses)	478,801	(1,350)	481,501	(35,667)
Net loss before tax	47,365	(235,271)	282,636	(120)
Net loss after tax	11,847	(235,271)	247,118	(105)

A. Operating revenue and gross profit (loss)

Material revenue and gross loss: Due to decreases in both average selling price and sales volume compared with the same period of the prior year, the Company recorded a gross loss from materials for the period.

Technology licensing revenue and gross profit: This was mainly due to the decrease in consulting service revenue recognized over time in line with customers' adjusted plant construction schedules, resulting in a gross loss.

B. Operating expenses

This was mainly due to the recognition of credit impairment losses of NT$61,104 thousand on accounts receivable from consulting services provided to Freyr and ICL for plant construction, as well as increased research and development expenses for new materials.

C. Non-operating income

This was mainly due to the mutual termination of the license agreement with AVENIRA, under which a prepaid license fee of US$500,000 was reclassified as non-operating income, and recognition of gains on disposal of real estate of approximately NT$477,982 thousand.

D. Net income (loss) after tax

Due to the gross operating loss and increase in operating expenses, operating loss increased for the period. However, as net non-operating income (expenses) increased by NT$481,501 thousand, net income after tax for the period increased by approximately NT$247,118 thousand compared with the net loss in the same period of the prior year.

1.2 Comparison of 2025 profit and loss with forecast figures

Units: NTD thousand

Item / Quarter	Actual	Forecast	Increase (Decrease)	Achievement Rate
Operating revenue	400,650	399,699	951	100
Gross operating loss	(28,349)	(15,337)	(13,012)	184
Operating expenses	(403,087)	(315,990)	(87,097)	128
Operating net loss	(431,436)	(331,327)	(100,109)	130
Non-operating income (expenses)	478,801	549,117	(70,316)	87
Net income before tax	47,365	217,790	(170,425)	22

In 2025, gross operating loss and operating expenses exceeded expectations, resulting in an increase in operating loss. As non-operating income (expenses) was lower than expected, net income before tax for the period decreased by approximately NT$170,425 thousand compared with the forecast figure

2. Strategies under the Sound Operating Plan

2.1 Operating strategies

The Company was established 20 years ago and has primarily focused on the research, development and production of cathode materials for lithium iron phosphate batteries. It has obtained 207 patents worldwide and is currently one of the few companies outside China possessing a complete set of patents covering the composition, structure and manufacturing process of lithium iron phosphate cathode materials. Prior to 2021, applications of lithium iron phosphate batteries were essentially limited to the Chinese market. Whether used in electric vehicle batteries or energy storage batteries, lithium iron phosphate batteries had not at that time gained recognition from major customers in Europe, the United States, Japan and Korea. The rise in the status of lithium iron phosphate batteries represents a structural change. Electric vehicle giant Tesla introduced lithium iron phosphate batteries into its Model 3/Y and other models, quickly proving their feasibility and economic benefits in passenger vehicles and formally driving lithium iron phosphate batteries to become a key option in the electric vehicle field.

As lithium iron phosphate battery technology has evolved, especially with breakthroughs in energy density improvement, tap-density optimization and mitigation of low-temperature performance degradation, lithium iron phosphate batteries can meet the driving range and efficiency requirements of mainstream electric vehicles. Recognition of lithium iron phosphate batteries in European and U.S. markets has also been strongly driven by geopolitics. As a non-China supply chain supplier, the Company has become a scarce resource under the policy backdrop of the U.S. Inflation Reduction Act and the European Critical Raw Materials Act. Through localized licensing and supply chain deployment, the Company directly assists European and U.S. customers in establishing compliant lithium iron phosphate battery supply chains, enabling lithium iron phosphate batteries to become a strategic solution in the global energy transition that combines performance, cost and policy compliance.

The following describes the Company's planned improvements and enhancements based on future market development trends and its competitive advantages in technology research and development.

A. Proactive deployment in European and U.S. markets

The Company regards European and U.S. markets as the core engine of future growth. The macro backdrop is the global wave of supply chain "de-Sinicization" and the local manufacturing legislation enacted by European and U.S. countries to promote the green energy transition. These policies strongly require battery material supply chains to be secure, localized and traceable. The Company's competitive advantages are as follows:

Scarce non-China LFP intellectual property company: The Company is one of the few non-China supply chain suppliers worldwide with 207 lithium iron phosphate patents, making it one of the few strategic partners for European and U.S. companies seeking to establish compliant supply chains.

Localized deployment: The Company uses an intellectual property licensing model to assist licensed customers in establishing LFP production lines in the United States. However, as licensed customers do not meet end-customer needs, the Company plans in the future to establish production bases in major markets by itself to satisfy local demand.

Technology leadership: The Company continues to provide technological evolution in LFP/LMFP in terms of low-temperature performance and energy density, meeting the stringent requirements of European and U.S. electric vehicle and high-end energy storage markets.

The Company has innovative advantages in LFP process technology. Its next-generation process achieves high automation and process simplification, reducing equipment investment, lowering operation and maintenance difficulty, and decreasing manpower requirements. This cost-reduction and efficiency-enhancement technology significantly improves the investment efficiency of LFP material plants. The Company is no longer limited to a light-asset licensing business model and may adopt a heavy-asset manufacturing strategy in key markets to flexibly respond to different market needs and create maximum value for shareholders.

B. Capacity expansion plan and introduction of new processes

Since April 2025, the U.S. government has imposed high reciprocal tariffs on Chinese products and adopted Section 302 measures on national security-related items to attract manufacturing investment in the United States through protective tariffs. Meanwhile, in July 2025, the Chinese government announced a ban on the export of fourth-generation and above high-tap-density lithium iron phosphate materials and manufacturing technologies. Under this dual policy effect, the Company's customers in the United States have actively invited the Company to build plants in the United States to assist them in completing a domestic lithium iron phosphate battery supply chain. To meet U.S. customers' demand for lithium iron phosphate cathode materials from non-China supply chain sources, the Company plans to expand production capacity for lithium iron phosphate cathode materials in stages, targeting an increase to an annual production capacity of 30,000 tons to gradually form an efficient production scale and achieve economies of scale.

2.2 Business management

A. Marketing strategy

The Company's marketing strategy will be closely centered on the two core themes of global supply chain reshaping and technology leadership, with the goal of consolidating the Company's strategic position as the world's only non-China LFP intellectual property and materials supplier.

Focus on strategic scarcity (non-China orientation): The Company will continue external communications and marketing emphasizing that, under the dual policy backdrop of high U.S. tariffs and China's ban on the export of high-tap-density LFP technology, the Company is the only reliable choice for European and U.S. customers seeking to establish supply chain resilience and policy compliance.

Consolidate technology leadership: Through industry forums, publication of R&D results and other means, the Company will continue to market its technological advantages, including its double-layer carbon coating patents and high-tap-density processes, and demonstrate its long-term vision of becoming a comprehensive solution provider for battery materials.

B. Research and development strategy

Focus on development of high-end LFP/LMFP materials: Targeting sixth-generation LFP, the Company is fully committed to developing sixth-generation high-tap-density LFP products. Laboratory samples have successfully increased compacted density from approximately 2.30 g/cm³ to 2.75 g/cm³, while reducing impurity content to below 100 ppm. Future R&D focus will shift to verifying process stability and performance optimization for mass production, to ensure that production lines can immediately produce high-end materials meeting the stringent requirements of North American and other customers.

Application of core patents: The Company's core patents will continue to be applied to LMFP and high-end LFP products to improve low-temperature performance and rate capability, and to address manganese dissolution in LMFP.

Deployment of diversified precursors and raw material sources: To strengthen supply chain resilience, in addition to refining its existing iron powder process, the Company is also actively investing in process research for multiple iron-source precursors, such as iron phosphate and ferrous oxalate. This enables the Company to flexibly switch raw material sources based on geopolitical factors or price fluctuations and ensure production stability. The Company's unique technology for producing iron phosphate from recycled semiconductor wastewater not only demonstrates cost-control and environmental advantages, but also provides excellent strategic differentiation in raw material supply.

C. Production strategy

The core of the Company's production strategy is to achieve localized global supply and intelligent process upgrades, ensuring quality and cost competitiveness in the non-China supply chain.

Diversified non-China precursor supply hub: The Taiwan plant will serve as a testing and supply hub for high-end precursors. The Company is committed to developing and supplying non-China precursors with various production methods and specifications (including sources based on iron powder, iron phosphate and ferrous oxalate), ensuring that future U.S. production lines have stable and diversified raw material sources. This provides key strategic flexibility for the Company in responding to global raw material supply fluctuations.

Process innovation and cost control: The Company will continue to promote innovative technology applications and process simplification, including the production of iron phosphate from recycled semiconductor wastewater, to maintain its leading cost-control capabilities in the global battery materials market.

D. Financial strategy

The Company will continue to broaden revenue sources and reduce expenditures, track and manage the collection of accounts receivable, control inventory and reduce production costs, thereby effectively enhancing operating performance and controlling operational risks.

3. Implementation of control measures

To ensure the effectiveness of the Sound Operating Plan and achieve financial and business performance under operating capability objectives, the Company's management will periodically convene management meetings to compare, analyze and manage the progress of predetermined improvement targets for operations, R&D and finance, take necessary improvement and adjustment measures, and submit reports to the Board of Directors for review on a quarterly basis, in order to confirm plan implementation progress and achieve the objectives of continuously improving financial and business conditions and strengthening operational efficiency.

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Advanced Lithium Electrochemistry (Cayman) Co., Ltd. and subsidiaries (the “Group”) as at December 31, 2025 and 2024, and the related consolidated statements of comprehensive income, of changes in equity and of cash flows for the years then ended, and notes to the consolidated financial statements, including a summary of material accounting policies.

In our opinion, the accompanying consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of the Group as at December 31, 2025 and 2024, and its consolidated financial performance and its consolidated cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, IFRIC Interpretations, and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with the Regulations Governing Financial Statement Audit and Attestation Engagements of Certified Public Accountants and Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors’ responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the Norm of Professional Ethics for Certified Public Accountant of the Republic of China, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgement, were of most significance in our audit of the Group's 2025 consolidated financial statements. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the consolidated financial statements as a whole and, in forming our opinion thereon, we do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matter for the Group's 2025 consolidated financial statements is stated as follows:

Valuation of property, plant, and equipment

Description

Refer to Note 4(18) for accounting policy on impairment of property, plant and equipment, and Note 6(6) for details of accounts. The recoverable amounts of property, plant and equipment of the Group are measured based on fair value less costs of disposal, which is used to determine whether there is any impairment. The estimation of the aforementioned measurement of fair value is subject to the professional judgment of management and involves numerous assumptions and material unobservable inputs. Any changes in judgments and estimates may affect the ultimate result of accounting estimates and may have a material impact on the financial statements. Thus, we have included the key assumptions in estimating the recoverable amounts used in the valuation of property, plant and equipment as a key audit matter.

How our audit addressed the matter

We performed the following audit procedures on the above key audit matter:

- A. Obtained the appraisal report from the external valuation expert who was commissioned by the management to determine whether the measurement method the management used is commonly adopted in the industry and considered appropriate; and
- B. Examined whether the significant unobservable input had reflected the assumptions that would be used for similar assets, and assessed the reasonableness of the assumptions used.

Responsibilities of management and those charged with governance for the consolidated financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements in accordance with the Regulations Governing the Preparation of Financial Reports by Securities Issuers and the International Financial Reporting Standards, International Accounting Standards, IFRIC Interpretations, and SIC Interpretations that came into effect as endorsed by the Financial Supervisory Commission, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Those charged with governance, including audit committee, are responsible for overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditors' responsibilities for the audit of the consolidated financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing of the Republic of China, we exercise professional judgment and professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

1. Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
2. Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
3. Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.

4. Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditors' report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditors' report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
5. Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
6. Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

From the matters communicated with those charged with governance, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the consolidated financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditors' report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.
